Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1–16, drawn to an ex vivo method for treating whole blood with CO, classified in class 435, subclass 2 and others.
- II. Claims 17–28, drawn to a method for treating a platelet enriched fraction with CO, classified in class 435, subclass 2 and others.
- III. Claims 29, 30, drawn to a method of treating a plasma fraction with CO, classified in class 424, subclass 530 and others.
- IV. Claim 31, drawn to a method of inhibiting bacterial growth in platelet fraction by treating with CO, classified in class 604, subclass 5.02 and others.
- V. Claim 32, drawn to a method for increasing storage stability of platelets comprising treating with CO and addition of a buffer, classified in class 435, subclass 2 and others.
- VI. Claims 33–36, drawn to a method for treating either whole blood or platelets comprising treating with CO, promoting exchange of CO with oxygen, classified in class 435, subclass 2 and others.
- VII. Claims 37–40, drawn to a method of determining viability of platelets or whole blood after storage comprising: determining the aggregation ability of the sample, classified in class 435, subclass 4 and others.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons: Inventions I–VII are distinct. Inventions are distinct if the inventions as claimed are not connected in at least one of design, operation, or effect (e.g., can be made by, or used in a materially different process) and wherein at least one invention is PATENTABLE (novel and nonobvious) OVER THE OTHER (though they may each be unpatentable over the prior art) (MPEP § 802.01).

The processes are distinct from one another because they use different starting products, recite different steps and have different end points.

The several inventions listed above are independent and distinct from one another as they have acquired a separate status in the art and require independent searches, particularly with regard to the literature searches. Clearly, a reference which would anticipate one of the above groups would not necessarily anticipate or even make obvious any of the others.

An undue burden would ensue from the examination of multiple methods which have distinct steps and end points. Burden lies not only in the search of US Patents, but in the search for literature and foreign patents and examination of the claim language and specification for compliance with the statutes concerning new matter, distinctness and

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and the inventions require a different field of search (see MPEP § 808.02), restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of an invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

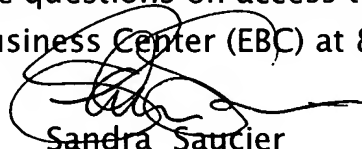

The election of an invention may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Sandra Saucier whose telephone number is (571) 272-0922. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday.
